

THE DAILY BEE. OMAHA. Friday Morning, October 26.

The Weather.

For the upper Mississippi valley, generally fair weather, northerly winds shifting to southerly, falling barometer, stationary or rising temperature.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Save money. Send to E. Fearon, wholesale cigar and tobacco dealer, for price list. The Union Pacific magnates, who have recently made a run over the Oregon Short Line, were expected to arrive in Salt Lake yesterday morning, but failed. They were afterward expected to reach here last night, but again failed to come.

livered in the evening by Rev. E. Brady on "The Pagan Women and the Christian Women." This subject will prove doubly interesting at the present time; in fact a more "taking" subject than woman could not be chosen at any time.

The new barracks at Fort Douglas are being pushed ahead with commendable vigor, and the contractors anticipate having them completed within the next twenty days.

Hon. J. T. Clarkson, of Schuyler, was an east-bound passenger last night.

Hon. A. J. Poppleton left for Des Moines last evening on legal business.

The legend of the "Seven Sleepers" is drawn into a comparison with the sleeper at the central office of the telephone exchange. If this trouble is not remedied a very serious result of his negligence will be published.

Rev. E. Brady will lecture at the Holy Family church on Sunday, October 28, at 8 p. m., for the benefit of the Holy Family church. Subject: "The Pagan Women and the Christian Women."

For some time past complaints have been made as to the condition of the road that leads up to Prospect Hill cemetery and as the county and city authorities refused to take any action in the matter the veteran sexton, Mr. George Medlock, finally took the matter in his own hands and yesterday morning set to work on the road leading up to the cemetery. It is a good movement and one for which Mr. Medlock deserves a great deal of praise.

Mr. John Baumer states positively that he will not be a candidate for county clerk, although he is the nominee of the working-men's and farmers' convention, so-called, held last week.

Two new and very pretty cars for the Omaha street railway company were received yesterday from the factory of James Stephenson in New Jersey. They are numbered 17 and 18, and are of the band box pattern with the latest appliances in the way of springs and brakes. They will probably be used on the St. Mary's avenue line.

Two car loads of pilots and trucks for the Denver & Rio Grande road were taken west on the fast freight yesterday afternoon.

The funeral of Dr. Rose will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon, from his late residence. The funeral of A. E. Simpson will take place on Sunday and will probably be conducted under the auspices of the Knight Templars. Dr. Simpson died between seven and eight o'clock yesterday morning and was about 28 years of age and well known in this community.

The funeral of the late Dr. Sorrell took place yesterday afternoon and was attended by a large number of our most prominent German citizens. The services were conducted by the Rev. Petersen, at the house, and at the grave and at the latter place Mr. Jacob Hauck made a very impressive speech in the German language.

An article handed in at the BEE office for publication in last Friday's edition, by some member of the Home Circle Club, stated that most of the members of the Vesta Chapter had joined that club. Several members of the Vesta Chapter called to-day and repudiated the statement. Vesta Chapter is a secret organization, and has no connection whatever with the club.

On next Monday the Sioux City & Pacific will commence to use its new bridge at Blair, and the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road will change its time table to meet the new arrangements of that road. The train now leaving here at 8:00 a. m. will leave at 7:30, and that arriving at 4:30 p. m. will arrive at 5:30. The Oakland train will leave at 8:00 p. m. instead of 12:45, but arrives as before at 11:40 a. m.

We again call attention to the time table published in THE BEE of the arrival and departure of trains and the opening and closing of mails, as being the only correct one printed in any Omaha paper. The travelling public so much depends upon the accuracy of the time-tables that are found in newspapers that every effort should be made to have them corrected up to date. We do so by ours.

In the District Court Wednesday, before Judge Wakelny, the case of Toner vs. The City of Omaha, was tried. This was a suit for $2,000 damages for personal injuries received by falling into the excavation made for the basement of Boyd's opera house, in 1881. Hon. J. C. Cowin and W. J. Conell for the city. The jury rendered a verdict for $500 in favor of the plaintiff.

Just before the arrival of train No. 4 on the U. P. Wednesday, a team standing near the U. P. depot took fright, at the escaping steam from one of the driver engines, and tried to run away. The driver held on for a while and then jumped for his life. The wagon was whirled about several times, one wheel smashed and the tongue broken. The team then fell down and was captured before any further damage was done.

The drivers of street cars were pretty liberally spotted with mud yesterday morning. Two drunken in the police court yesterday morning, one of them "Whisky Jack."

Vanderbilt is worth about 4,000 times his own weight in gold, or about 50,000 times his own weight in silver. It is not thought that he ever needs to work any more.

A young man is desirous of a position as tutor to a family. Instructions in English literature and in the Latin and Greek. Hours from 5 to 6 or from 7 to 8 p. m. Apply at this office.

There was another big land slide at the Florence Cut-off Wednesday, one hundred and fifty feet long and twenty-five feet deep. This sort of interruption promises to continue the work indefinitely.

The trial of Levy for kicking up a row during a Jewish prayer-meeting lately promises to take some time. It has been postponed until the 7th of next month and a jury demanded. It is making a great fuss over a very small matter.

North Dakota's coat of arms is a shield draped with the American flag depending from the peak of an eagle. In the background is a range of hills and the chimney of a smelting furnace; in the center is a river on which a steamboat and a train of cars are rounding a bluff. Beyond is a field of wheat and corn, with a white man with his plow on one hand and an Indian with his bow in his hand.

The opening of the new Holy Family church, on Nineteenth and Izard streets, next Sunday, is an important event to the Catholics of North Omaha and to the city generally, showing as it does the wonderful growth of the Gate City. As a fitting close of the public ceremonies of the day a lecture will be de-

FREE BOOKS. The Present Condition of the Omaha Public Library.

And its Prospects When Accommodated With New Quarters.

Early in December the public library will be in its new quarters in the third story of Williams' block, much more commodious than the present room in the second story. In order to learn what always might occur at the time of the removal in the arrangement and plan of the library, a reporter dropped in yesterday soon after the room was opened, that is to say a little after 10 o'clock.

Already there were a number of people consulting the newspapers arranged in their long files or thumbing the magazines, or making demands at the librarian's window for different books. As soon as Miss Allen,

THE LIBRARIAN, was at liberty, the reporter asked what changes in book arrangements might be contemplated.

"There are needed," said Miss Allen, "a separate reading room, and particularly a separate reference room. I mean by that a room under the charge of an assistant librarian, where should be kept all the encyclopedias, documents and books of reference which are not allowed to leave the library. It should be a place where patrons of the library can study up subjects without being distracted by the surroundings under which they now carry on their investigations. Here also they could call for such books as they temporarily consult from the circulating part of the library."

"Will the number of librarians be increased?"

"We shall in all probability, have three librarians this winter. The increased space, ALMOST TWICE the room we now have demands it, and the number of books is increasing very rapidly. There is some talk of having a separate room for periodicals; we have not shelf room enough yet, and none of the new magazines, the Manhattan or the English magazines, have been subscribed to yet on that account."

"How many periodicals has the library now?" the reporter asked.

"We have about fifty papers and magazines, but many more are called for."

"Will not the third floor make the books rather inaccessible?"

"Having the library on the third floor will not have so much effect as the use of the books as on the use of the periodicals, because there are a number of business men that run up here to glance over the newspapers, particularly the Chicago papers, when they have FIVE MINUTES TO SPARE and now it will take them those five minutes to climb the stairs. But that is not so bad as Chicago, where the periodical room is on the fourth floor. The lower floors are best, of course, for library purposes, a reading room on the first floor would be much better than one on the high at present that the directors cannot afford it. The money has to be put into new books now."

"What is the annual increase in the number of books?"

"There are about ten thousand volumes in the library now and the increase this year is about three thousand, I believe. The old and trashy novels are being weeded out and their places supplied with a better class of fiction. All of Black's novels have been bought, Mrs. Oliphant's and others. Only first-class books are being bought now, and the directors are guided very much by the demands of

THE LIBRARIAN'S PATRONS.

There will be some $25,000 to use this year, counting from the 1st of a mill tax on the city. Senator Manderson has also very kindly offered to supply our shelves with all the Government reports and public documents. The library is altogether in a very flourishing condition and we hope to be in the new rooms by the first of December. There are many people, however, who actually do not know that there is a free public library in this city, and have lived here some time, and there are others who are aware of the library's existence, but have no idea what an extensive and useful one it really is. I wish you would mention this."

And the scribbles promised to mention it. The public library is growing rapidly, and it is made much use of. But there are many yet who would find it to their advantage to visit it.

Buckley's Arnica Salve. The greatest medical wonder of the world. Warranted to speedily cure Burns, Cuts, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Cancers, Piles, Chishina, Corns, Tetters, Chapped hands, and all skin eruptions, guaranteed to cure in every instance, or money refunded. 25 cents per box.

Buffalo Bill, Dr. Carver, Capt. Bogardus, Major North, Tom Wilson and a score of other heroes, with Indians, scouts and cowboys, exhibit at the fair grounds Saturday afternoon.

CUTTING CHILDREN'S HAIR. The Process as Observed in an Omaha Barber Shop.

"Come, doarie, come in and let the barber cut your hair," said a handsomely dressed lady at the door of a barber shop in this city yesterday to a youngster who hung back just outside the door. "Come, now, be good."

"I—don't want to," said his little highness, poutingly.

"Oh, yes, come. He won't hurt you, and then mamma'll get some candy. Come, Willie."

But Willie still manifested no anxiety to pass the threshold even at the offer of sweetmeats. After coaxing him awhile his mother finally gave in and telling the barber that she guessed she'd have to try it some other day, disappeared with her sweet tempered little infant.

A reporter, who was reclining in one of the chairs, enjoying a shave, witnessed this scene as it was reflected in a mirror in front of him.

"Nice child, that," he observed to his friend the barber, "he observed to his friend the barber, 'There's lots just like 'em. When a woman comes to the door and commences to talk to her child that way, why I don't make no motion at all for to get the high chair, 'cause I know as sure as fate that that kid ain't going to have its hair cut. The woman can beg all day of the youngster, and it's no good. But when they come right in and the lady says, 'This little boy wants his hair cut; I will take off your hat, then I flies around lively and get's the high chair for the little fellow, 'cause I know it's a job. And the barber was about correct in his judgment in this department of human nature.

Redding's Russia Salve is an invaluable dressing for inflamed and sore joints. Price 25c.

The Wild West is known through the East as "Nebraska's Show" and "Omaha's Outfit," so we at home should give it a rousing welcome as it closes the season here.

ANOTHER SUCKER. A Cow-boy Downed By Confidence Med.

He Takes His Misfortune Good Naturedly.

The confidence men as well as the burglars appear to be thriving at present in this vicinity, and reports from Council Bluffs and Lincoln show that these communities are also suffering from their raids.

Last evening a bull puncher from the grass regions came in on the U. P. overland train and came to grief before he got off on his train at the transfer. He was downed by the oldest confidence dodge known. He was on his way to Missouri, and met a slick one, bound for the same place. The latter had a lot of express goods on the train, and between Omaha and the transfer was approached by an express messenger, who insisted that the freight must be paid before the goods could be forwarded. The owner of the goods of course proved to be short of money and struck his newly made acquaintance for $100, offering him as security a check on a St. Joe bank for $1,000. He got it at once and on arriving at the other side went up to the express office (?) to see about his property, promising to return at once. It is unnecessary to say that he is still missing. His victim, who is well apprized of the character of his new acquaintance and admitted that he had been sold, but took it very good naturedly. He did not have a cent left to buy lunch on his trip home, but he has probably obtained a valuable bit of experience.

The Wild West plays at Council Bluffs to-day. To-morrow afternoon at Omaha fair grounds. Don't miss it.

VOICE AND VIOLIN. Notes Upon the Calderwood Concert Last Evening.

There was no lack of enthusiasm in the audience last night at the Opera House, not only because it was composed largely of friends of Miss Calderwood and her assistants, but because the entertainment was so thoroughly good that it deserved applause. The programme exhibited as a list of names as ever contributed to an amateur concert in this city. The selections of the Philomathean string quartette from Haydn and Beethoven were very carefully played, and the quartette from the Glee club sang their "Bauchtaunel" so well that a repetition was demanded.

Mr. Edward Raff, whose voice is well known in Omaha now, sang "Thy Sentimental Voice." Mr. Raff has a remarkably rich and clear voice, and his rendition of the song was a real treat. Miss Pennell's sweet and rich contralto was tested with great credit to herself in Barnby's "When the Tide Comes In," a more pleasing song than the one, "Jamie," which she gave to an encore. Messrs. Breckenridge and Deuel made an admirable duet, for their voices chime perfectly. They sang Campana's "Serenade." "See the Pale Moon." The singer of the evening, Miss Lizzie Calderwood, chose for her opening number a most difficult selection from Verdi, "Sorta e la Noite, Ernani Ivolami," which gave every opportunity to display the training her voice has received during her two years' absence from here. Nearly all who were present last evening had heard her the last time she sang in Omaha and were prepared to make comparisons. They were all favorable; unanimous in the opinion that her work in Boston had resulted most profitably. Miss Calderwood's voice has become as clear as a bell, and as firm in its vibration. If there was a tinge of uncertainty in the trills it was only from a lack of confidence which was gained in the later numbers, for, indeed, each piece with she favored the audience was better than the preceding.

Miss Calderwood's encores were a lullaby and a sprightly bit of advice to lovers, both songs particularly adapted to her voice, and which merit a fresh note. The entertainment closed with a delightful quartette, "Tell Me, Roses," by Misses Calderwood and Pennell, and Messrs. Northrup and France.

Miss Calderwood was presented with a number of floral tributes, which she gratefully accepted. There is only one criticism worth remarking, and that is upon the opera house itself, which was disagreeably cold.

Don't miss the Wild West at the Omaha fair grounds Saturday afternoon.

MUD PLOUGHS. Scraping the Pavement on Upper Douglas Street.

Yesterday, just after noon, just after dinner, a force of men were put to work by Street Commissioner Mike Meany, on the Douglas street pavement to shovel off the mud. The dirt has been carried out this street by all the wagon-wheels in town and now lies so thick that each shovel full is two or three inches deep.

The shovelers were backed by a queer looking implement, a cross between a snow plow and a rake. It was drawn by two horses and on it were seated two men to hold it down. The mud curved up in front of it in great, long rolls and still considerable was left behind, but this was to be washed off by hose attached to a hydrant. This is Meany's patent.
